I resigned from the Town Center and Library Buildings Committee a few weeks ago over frustration over the uncontrolled atmosphere in our meetings and my inability to make my thoughts known. Although there was a sense of relief after I resigned, I am having a hard time walking away and I believe that I have something to contribute. I attended the last meeting as a member of the public and found that things had changed somewhat and I was allowed to speak and express my opinions. As I stated in the meeting my emphasis right now is on public transparency, and public participation in what we are doing. I believe that will not only help us make our decisions but also make it more likely that our final proposal will be accepted. I have some ideas on how to do this. I therefore ask that I be allowed to rejoin the committee. I am not sure if I need to be reappointed by the select board, or if I can just resume my old position.
